F. H. A. Girls To Meet At College On July 28-29

125 Members Are Expected For Annual Two-Day Session Of Association

One hundred and twenty-five teen-age girls, all members of the Alabama Future Homemakers Association, will hold their fifth annual meeting on the campus of Alabama College, July 28-29.

The organized Future Homemakers — which among girls is the equivalent of the Future Farmers of America among farm boys — will demonstrate at the meeting their proficiency in the arts and crafts of homemaking, especially in those phases of homemaking which have been stressed by their leaders during the past year.

Highlighting the first day of the gathering will be an address by Miss Katherine Forney, state supervisor of home economics education, speaking on "Future Homemakers in the Alabama Vocational Program." A picnic supper, dancing, and games on the campus will conclude the first day's activities.

At the Saturday morning session, an honorary member of the Future Homemakers Association, Mrs. R. E. Cammack, of Montgomery, will speak on the subject, "A Homemaker Chats With Future Homemakers." This meeting will also feature a round-table discussion by members of the girls' organization in which they will be joined by representative members of the Future Farmers of America.

The meeting this year marks the first occasion when members of both F. H. A. have met together at the F. H. A. annual meetings.

State officers of the Alabama Future Homemakers Association, who have been active in planning the meet this year include Annie Pearl Honeycutt, Clanton, president; Claire Conerly, Jackson, vice-president; Alice Parker, Lincoln, secretary; Alabelle Norman, Hope Hull, treasurer; Carolyn Shaw, Aliceville, parliamentarian; and Muriel K. Lowery, Jemison, historian.

Board Of Education Receives PWA Check

According to an announcement by County Superintendent J. L. Appleton, the Shelby County Board of Education has just received a check for $12,700 from the Public Works Administration as a payment on the grant allowed in constructing and remodeling public school buildings in Shelby County. This amount added to the $31,750 grant received early in the year, already totals $44,450 from this source. When the school building program in the county is completed, Supt. Appleton states the grant or gift from the Public Works Administration will amount to more than $83,000.

This fine building program is rapidly nearing completion and will add materially to the efficiency of the schools for the children of the county. Supt. Appleton further states that it would have been impossible to erect these buildings without this grant from the Public Works Administration.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

Judge Leigh M. Clark, of Birmingham, will preach for the Montevallo Church of Christ, Sunday morning, July 30, at 11 o'clock, at the Girl Scout House. Judge Clark is a graduate of the University of Alabama and one of the youngest judges in the state. He is an excellent speaker. The public is cordially invited to hear him.

Miss Annie Pearl Honeycutt, president of the Alabama Future Homemakers Association, which will meet here on July 28-29.

Summer School Notes

Two hundred and twenty students have registered for the second term of summer school. Approximately 150 home economics teachers are expected to register for the School of Instruction.

School of Instruction Entertained At Reception

On Monday evening, July 24, the staff of the School of Instruction entertained those in attendance at a reception in the home management house on the Alabama College campus. Miss Rebecca Pate and Mrs. Mary G. Bickler greeted the guests, and Miss Evelyn Calhoun presented them to the receiving line. In the receiving line were: Miss Katherine Forney, Dr. and Mrs. A. F. Harman, Dr. and Mrs. Orr, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Gentry, Dr. I. T. Sanders, Miss Mattie Lee, and Mr. E. H. Wills.

The house was decorated with garden flowers. Punch and cookies were served by Mrs. Glennie Nybeck, Miss Mildred Meroney, Miss Frances Ribble, Miss Rebecca Anderson, Miss Hattie Lyman, and Miss Frances Baxter.

Miss Jean Lewis rendered piano selections during the evening.

We are delighted to report that Mr. W. M. Jones-Williams is responding to the treatment which he is undergoing at Highland Baptist Hospital, Birmingham, and that he expects to return to Montevallo in about two weeks. Mr. Jones-Williams has been Engineer and Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds at Alabama College for many years.

Baptists Go to Atlanta

The following group attended the 6th Congress, Baptist World Alliance, in Atlanta last week-end: Dr. and Mrs. J. I. Riddle, Mrs. Dora G. Ramsour, and Rev. Fred B. Pearson. This congress meets every five years and has representatives from all nations in attendance at each congress. The previous congress was held in Berlin five years ago, and it is anticipated that the next one will be held in some city in Asia.

Miss Abi Russell, librarian, is spending the next five weeks at the University of Chicago, where she will do special library work. We know she will be pleased to hear that attendance has improved in the library since the three big elections.

BROTHERHOOD CLASS

The Baptist Brotherhood Class met last Sunday, July 23, with twenty-four members present. Those present were R. L. Griffin, J. R. Lewis, Charles L. Robertson, A. W. Day, S. J. McGaughy, M. P. Jeter, F. P. Givhan, Fred Frost, Jr., John Nix, Mack Nix, John Reid, Joe Wood, Francis Killingsworth, W. N. Robinson, B. B. Nix, Edwin Brady, Otis Williams, Clyde Gardner, L. W. Wooten, George McGaughy, C. B. Blankenship, M. C. Jeter, Dr. C. T. Acker, Jack Wood.

Dr. Hallie Farmer To Receive Place On Parole Board

It is announced through official sources in Montgomery that Dr. Hallie Farmer, head of the history department at Alabama College, will be the sole woman member of the new state board of pardons and parole. This board will be set up under provisions of the constitutional amendment which was adopted by the voters of Alabama on July 11.

It is greatly reassuring to the citizenship of Alabama to know that Dr. Farmer shall be a member of the group who will have charge of bringing pardon and parole reform to Alabama.

She is one of the most able and capable personages in our state. Her selection for this important place gives assurance that there is in our state administration a really determined purpose to make the pardon board out of the best mental timber that is available.

No one could hope for a better selection than that of Dr. Farmer. Knowing her personally as we do, we are prepared to venture the hope that the other members may measure up to Dr. Farmer in ability, training, and fitness for the job.

Some Big Picnics On Summer Schedule

We hear talk of some important public gatherings which are said to be scheduled for this vicinity in the next few months in the form of picnics, barbecues, public speakings, etc.

The first mentioned is an occasion sponsored by the County Farmers Union to be held about August 9. The place, we are told, will be in a large grove near the Rogers place on the Siluria Road a few miles north of Montevallo.

Then we hear that the labor organizations are planning something of the kind on a large scale for Labor Day. The place, so far as we know, has not been announced.

For Armistice Day the Improved Order of Red Men are planning a mammoth patriotic celebration in Montevallo. This, it is said, will include a barbecue, picnic, public speaking, and other things appropriate to the occasion. At this picnic an automobile will be given away, the proceeds of which will be used in the fund which the Wauhoma Tribe No. 52 is raising for the purpose of building a lodge hall in Montevallo.

More definite announcement will be made concerning these occasions as further plans of their sponsors are worked out.

It looks like we are in for a spell of good old-fashioned community get-togethers for the rest of the summer. Let 'em come! The more the merrier.

Elementary Building Named For Miss Boyd

By vote of the Alabama College board of trustees, the new elementary building being erected as part of the training school in the education department here will be named the Mary Alice Boyd Building in honor of Miss Boyd who was for 14 years principal of the training school. Miss Boyd came to Montevallo in 1923 and served continuously in the education department until her death in 1937.

The Boyd Building, rapidly nearing completion, is a distinctive addition to the teacher-training department where pre-school and elementary grades will be taught. In keeping with the new theories of progressive education, the spacious classrooms are designed for play projects for children as well as for the more routine class work. Bright pastel wall colorings, appealing to young eyes, also make the new structure unique among Alabama school buildings.

Miss McWilliams Will In Williamsburg Research

DR. HALLIE FARMER

It is rumored in circles close to Governor Dixon that Dr. Hallie Farmer, head of the history department of Alabama College, is to be the only woman member of the proposed new five-man pardon and parole board which is to be created as a result of the recent ratification of the parole amendment — one of five on which the people put their stamp of approval earlier in the month. Dr. Farmer has been active in organizing the annual Student Career Conference held on the Montevallo campus each summer, and takes an active part in the work of the American Association of University Women.

FSA Offers Aid To Farm Tenants

Tenants, sharecroppers, and farm laborers who would like to own their own homes are urged to make application at once at the Farm Security Administration office over the theatre in Columbiana, states James N. Dennis, county FSA supervisor.

Under this program, which was extended to this county for the second time, a limited number of family sized farms will be purchased for worthy tenants, sharecroppers, and farm laborers who can qualify under provisions of the Bankhead-Jones tenant act.

The loans made under this program are made over a forty-year period at three per cent interest, says Supervisor Dennis.

"No land is approved for purchase," he said, "where the probable income, as determined by the farm and home plans carefully worked out with each family, does not provide a sufficient margin for good living and loan repayment requirements to justify an adequate dwelling and other buildings." In most cases, he pointed out, the annual payments, including interest and insurance, are less than usual rentals for farms with good land and good buildings. All services of the Farm Security Administration are made available to tenant purchase families, who, through ownership, are enabled to plan operations on a long-range basis.

MR. JONES-WILLIAMS IN BIRMINGHAM HOSPITAL

Mr. W. M. Jones-Williams, engineer and superintendent of buildings and grounds at Alabama College, is in a Birmingham hospital for observation and examination.

His many friends hope that he will soon be able to return home.

Those who attended the Vincent Lopez dance in Birmingham Tuesday night were J. A. Brown, Sara Nell Lucas, E. C. Simpson, Theda Wyatt, John Stephens, Nell Wooten, Jimmy Wyatt, and Frances Mims.

Cary V. Stabler, Faculty Member Who Spent 17 Years Here

Dr. Hunter Farish, who directs research work now in progress at Colonial Williamsburg, in Virginia, this week announced that he has invited Miss Mary McWilliams, of the history department of Alabama College, to become associated with him in the work of piecing together from existing records the story of Virginia's early capital.

This project, a personal enthusiasm of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is supported by the Rockefellers, looking toward eventual restoration of Williamsburg as it was in the Seventeenth and Eighteenth Centuries—the social and political hub of English America.

Miss McWilliams' selection to aid in this extended investigation comes as a result of her distinguished work in Southern historical research undertaken while she has been associate professor of history at Alabama College.

She comes from an old Wilcox County family and is known in the state for her research in Alabama history. She is historical adviser to the Alabama Chapter of United Daughters of the Confederacy.

17 Years Here

A total of 17 years of the career of Miss McWilliams has been spent at Alabama College. For two years, 1909-1911, she was a student, receiving a diploma in music at the termination of her academic course. From 1912 to 1914 she was assistant professor in the department of music as a teacher of piano. She studied music in New York in 1914 and 1915, after which she taught music four years in Alabama high schools. Six years were devoted to teaching in Alabama public schools. She received her B. S. and M. A. degree from Peabody and Columbia.

Since 1926 Miss McWilliams has been assistant professor of history at Alabama College.

County Unemployment Benefits In June Total $3,832.31

Montgomery, Ala., July 22—Unemployment benefits totaling $3,832.31 were paid to residents of Shelby County by the Department of Industrial Relations during June.

This is shown by statistics made public today by Judge John D. Petree, director of industrial relations. Of this amount, $3,323.85 went to persons who were totally unemployed, while $508.46 represented payments to persons who were partially unemployed.

A total of 516 persons in Shelby County received payments, of which 440 were totally unemployed and 76 were partially unemployed.

Lawrence County continued to make the smallest demand on the unemployment trust fund during the month. It received $60, represented by eight benefit checks. Lowndes was second with eighteen checks for a total of $107.

Total payments in Alabama during June were $361,523.17, represented by 51,999 benefit checks. Checks for total unemployment numbered 41,774 and called for the payment of $303,076.84. Persons who were partially unemployed drew 10,225 checks for a total of $58,446.33.

Jefferson, because of its large industrial population, collected the largest amount in unemployment compensation, its total being $106,979.39, represented by 12,824 benefit checks. Mobile came second with 6,357 checks for $41,624.30. Calhoun was third with 2,791 checks representing $19,052.01. Etowah fourth with 2,326 checks for $17,580.99, while Montgomery followed with checks totaling 2,136 and representing $13,699.88.

BUS TRANSPORTATION FOR COLLEGE STUDENTS

The Shelby County Democrat observes that a plan for bus transportation for students of various parts of Shelby County to attend Alabama College, is being wholeheartedly endorsed by leading educators, officials, and citizens of the county.

"E. M. Maudlin, prominent planter of Wilsonville," says the Democrat, "has recently written some articles regarding the advisability of attempting bus transportation for students from Vincent, Harpersville, Columbiana, and Calera who were desirous of obtaining a college education at Alabama College, but were unable to remain in the college for these educational advantages."

Further supporting the idea, Judge W. W. Wallace, in conference with some influential citizens, is quoted in the following statement:

"I desire to place my wholehearted approval upon the plan suggested recently by my good friend, Mr. C. M. Maudlin, regarding the bus transportation of students to Alabama College, and believe that the time has arrived when public spirited citizens in every town and community accessible to the paved highway should call a public meeting of school patrons and interested citizens to determine the demand for such service. The opportunity for higher education is knocking at our doors; shall we allow it to go unheeded?"

"I urge the civic and educational clubs of Shelby County and the patrons of our school to get behind the public spirited citizens who have begun this decided step forward for the young women of our county, and lend their full cooperation toward development of plans for completing the proposed project."

The Times is glad to note such interest in this question. It is a new approach to the problem of college education for many young women who live close by Alabama College, but who at the same time cannot have a college education unless they can board at home while getting it.

There should be a sufficient number of such possible students to make the plan practicable.

Bus transportation has brought high school education to many boys and girls who could not have gone away from home to get it. A sufficient number of students is the only requirement necessary to make the plan workable.

Let us have the suggested survey and find out if there are enough prospective college students to warrant a bus to haul them to Alabama College.

Furthermore, such transported students would not be affected by the limited dormitory space at the college, which condition alone, outside the students' financial limitations, might keep many girls from attending.

MARY ALICE BOYD BUILDING

Once again the memory of Miss Mary Alice Boyd is very fittingly and impressively honored in Montevallo.

By action of the Board of Trustees of Alabama College, the new elementary school building, erected this summer, as a part of the college training school, will be named the Mary Alice Boyd Building.

Vivid is the mental picture of the happy heart of Miss Boyd if she could behold this handsome new structure which takes its place now as a part of the institution to whose highest ideals she gave fourteen years of the most innobling service.

When our happy-hearted youth march into this new edifice on the first of September, they will be, perhaps unconsciously, but nevertheless truly, greeted in blessedness by the undying spirit of Mary Alice Boyd.

SUMMER HOMES FOR GOVERNORS

For some weeks The Times editor has been warming up to the point of writing an editorial in opposition to the idea of Senator W. C. Holmes of Foley that the state establish a governors' summer home "somewhere on the Gulf Coast."

Now the esteemed Birmingham News editor has come out and done that subject to our entire and hearty satisfaction. Therefore, in view of the hot weather, which we find so conducive to delay and laziness in editorial effort, we conclude to let the subject go with a reproduction of The News editorial, which, we confess, is quite as good as we could ever hope to write:

Here is it:

"It would be pleasant for governors of Alabama to have a summer lodge down on the Gulf Coast where they could relax from the strenuous duties of their position. It would be fine to have a state property in South Alabama so that executives hailing from the northern section of the state could get better acquainted with all the state. Governors need a quiet place to relax now and then, to get a better perspective of their problems. And certainly encouragement should be given the idea of broadening the viewpoint of the executive. There is much to be said, indeed, for this proposal by State Senator W. C. Holmes, of Foley, that the state establish a governors' summer home somewhere on the Gulf coast."

There is only one condition in acceptance of the idea — can the state afford it? A summer home, even in these effete times, is generally regarded as a luxury. A summer home comes in the class of two cars, fried chicken every day, a tie to match every shirt, and two butlers. They are nice things to have, if the pocketbook can stand it.

It is questionable if the idea of a summer home for the governor, in addition to the mansion provided for him at Montgomery, will be regarded as more of a necessity than some other things for which state money is needed.

Teachers of Alabama are not apt to get enthusiastic over use of the state's money in this way, considering the fact that the average monthly salary for white teachers of Alabama, calculated on a 12 months basis, is only $65. As long as many teachers in Alabama schools are paid less than the relief wages paid common laborers, as long as the average salary of white teachers is lower than that of convict guards, as long as Alabama teachers get less than post-office janitors in the state, they will not look kindly on additional remuneration to other state employees.

Nor is the idea likely to be taken to kindly by old and needy persons who are threatened with the loss of their old-age pension if the state cannot raise its present appropriation averaging $4.65 a month a person.

Nor is enthusiasm apt to be noted for the plan on the part of health workers suffering curtailment of disease-prevention work.

As we said, a summer lodge for the governors of the state is a fine idea. Far better it is, too, that the state provide this home than that it be given, as a former governor got his, through gifts of political henchmen. Nevertheless, a summer lodge is hardly a necessity to be ranked with other obligations of the state. As long as the state government must needs scrimp and save to carry on the existing functions of the state, even with an honest and able administration, there is a reasonable doubt whether the time has come for expansions of the sort contemplated."

Now, if Frank Dixon is the kind of a man and governor we believe he is, he will neither encourage nor condone the idea of the State of Alabama spending money for a governors' summer home "somewhere on the Gulf Coast."

When we think of the nip-and-tuck penny-pinching that is necessary for the thousands of good Alabama citizens who are straining every nerve and muscle to keep farms and small business going in order to feed, clothe, and educate the children and pay taxes to keep our state going forward in progress; then of the idea of a summer cottage for the governor "somewhere on the Gulf Coast" at the expense of these same citizens—well, the two are so incongruous that we believe it can't happen in Alabama now.

A GOOD POKER FACE

Chilton County is balking on its part of the new paved University Highway from Tuscaloosa to Montgomery. The county's lack of concern about this road, as reflected in the county's newspapers, has provoked serious comment in Tuscaloosa, Centreville, and Montgomery. Memory of bygone years recalls that building of the Birmingham-Montgomery Highway through Chilton was not accorded the universal approval and support of local citizens and public officials.

It was built in spite of local opposition, and we may see the same thing done again before the University Highway becomes a reality.

"The shortest distance between two points is a straight line," reminds the Centreville Press. Yes, and the officials of Chilton County know that geometrical truth.

By this theory it was reasoned years ago that the Birmingham-Montgomery Highway would have to come through Chilton because it could not go around it. They may be aiming to "wait out" the University Highway on the same proposition.

Chilton County is strategically situated in the center of everything in Alabama, and they are not reluctant to gathering in the advantages that are theirs by virtue of location.

Well, why not? you might ask. Somebody has got to be lucky in location and the trump card fell to Chilton's hand.

Another side of the argument is that Chilton has already received much in highways at the hands of the state, and the county should now reciprocate by bearing its part of the University Highway cost.

CHILTON HIGH SCHOOL

The newspapers of Clanton reflect much concern among the citizens of the town and county because the new county high school building will not be erected in time for school opening this fall.

The old building was destroyed by fire last winter. Last session of school was completed in the Baptist Church, where, it appears, the next session will be conducted.

MONTEVALLO'S YOUNG PEOPLE GO IN FOR CIVIC BEAUTY

A laudable enterprise in civic beautification is in progress at Montevallo at the hands of a group of high school boys and girls. They have set out to show the grown-ups of the town what can be done in the way of beautifying lawns and houses. According to an account of their efforts in The Montevallo Times, they are setting a fine example of how people can "make more beautiful homes by doing the work of creating beauty."

These young people are using the lawn of the Montevallo Girl Scout house as a sort of proving ground. There they have made a flagstone walk, two rock gardens and a graded lawn.

A group of boys took on the task of making the flagstone walk and the rock gardens. They picked the stones from a slagpile, had them hauled to the lawn of the Girl Scout house and set them in place. It was hard work, but apparently the boys enjoyed it.

Another group of boys did a two-in-one job by clearing up limbs from trees that had been blown down in a recent storm and then transforming them into beautiful rustic lawn seats.

The girls have been busy demonstrating how yards and walks can be kept clear of bits of paper and other trash. Part of this demonstration consisted of taking photographs. The pictures were not complimentary, for they showed how the citizens of Montevallo have been neglecting to use the trash cans on the streets.

Some of the girls have gone in for demonstrating the principles of good interior decoration. Some of the boys with a mechanical turn of mind have undertaken to show how such things as balky radios and carpet sweepers can be made to work.

"Citizens of Montevallo, salute these young people," says The Times. "They are serving you well."

Indeed they are serving their community well. Not only are they setting a fine example for all the people of Montevallo; they are setting an example as well for the young people of other cities and towns. It would be a fine thing if the boys and girls of every community were trained in the work of civic beautification. The results would be both immediate and long-lasting. The immediate beautification of the community would in itself be reward enough for their efforts. But also the young people would learn lessons in tidiness and beautification that would stay with them throughout their lives. They would become better home-builders and community-builders as adults.

Of course, guidance is necessary to start a project of this kind. In the case of Montevallo, the guidance was furnished by Gordon McCloskey, of Alabama College, as a part of the institution's summer demonstration school. Alabama College, Montevallo and the boys and girls are to be congratulated on their good work. It is to be hoped that the example will be followed by the young people of other communities in Alabama. — The Birmingham News.

THE HIGH SCHOOL SITUATION

We have heard much discussion regarding the high school situation in Columbiana. We have interviewed Supt. J. L. Appleton to give interested patrons the "facts" regarding the progress of the building.

The building is now being torn down. The contract for the erection of the new building will be let within the next two weeks. It calls for a one story building which includes more commodious classrooms and an adequate auditorium. The government's limit on erection is November. Mr. Appleton is working on this project as fast as is possible and we are confident that his plan for this building will meet with popular approval and will be, when completed, a building to which Shelby County citizens may point with pride. — Shelby County Democrat.

COTTON GROUPS GET FREE SERVICE

Auburn, Ala.—J. C. Lowery, agronomist of the Alabama Extension Service, said today that applications of 12 one-variety cotton improvement communities had already been approved to obtain free classing service of the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics. The 12 communities, or associations of farmers, include 23,436 acres of cotton.

Lowery said that around 120 cotton improvement groups in the state have indicated they want to take advantage of the free classing service offered for the first time last year. The service is available only to improvement groups which are cooperative efforts of farmers to improve the variety and staple length of cotton by planting only one variety in a community.

Every improvement community in the state is eligible to receive this service if application is made before September, it is understood. Only a few communities took advantage of the service last year but Lowery indicated that most of the groups in the state would apply this year.

This is part of the cotton improvement program started in Alabama in 1930 which has already resulted in a large increase in the percentage of long staple cotton being grown in the state.

Five communities which have been approved to receive the classing service are Industry, Forest Home, Greenville, McKenzie, and Mount Olive, all in Butler County. Over 3,000 acres of cotton are included in these communities where an extensive cotton improvement campaign is being conducted under the supervision of County Agent C. P. Granade.

The Medicine and Public Health exhibit at the New York World's Fair on one day drew 49 per cent of the paid attendance.

Signs of Dissent On Money Bills Seen

Montgomery, Ala.—Bills appropriating over $40,000,000 annually among various departments and agencies were ready for introduction in the Alabama legislature today, and even before they were placed in the legislative mill there were signs of dissatisfaction.

Dr. J. A. Keller, president of Florence State Teachers College, speaking, he said, for the heads of all five such institutions, asserted they were "dissatisfied" with a finance and taxation committee recommendation that their appropriations be increased by a total of $75,000 annually.

Keller said the colleges had hoped for $100,000 — a $20,000 increase each—but he did not reveal whether they would carry their request to the legislative floor. Educational appropriations as a whole were hiked $2,452,000 a year in bills approved by the committee.

WOMEN JOB HOLDERS

Montgomery, Ala.—A bill aimed at both husband and wife being employed by the state, county, municipality, or school system, where the husband is making as much as $1,000 a year, was to be introduced in the House today by Representative J. M. Devers, Jackson. Devers' bill would bar any wife from employment by either the state, county, municipality, or school system if her husband were employed and receiving the above amount annually.

Plan To Split County Is Aired in Jefferson

Montgomery, Ala., July 20 — A proposal looking toward the division of Jefferson County into two counties, one of which would be made up of the present Bessemer Cutoff, was being considered today by members of the Jefferson legislative delegation.

The idea was projected at a meeting of the delegation last night when Sen. James A. Simpson suggested legislation creating a commission to study the advisability of the proposal and report its recommendations to the next legislature.

Mr. Simpson declared that he is "inclined to believe that it probably would be wise to divide Jefferson and make a separate county of the Cutoff, inasmuch as state funds are divided on a county basis."

"We would get more benefits," he added.

It was pointed out that all state gasoline taxes and a portion of the sales tax are distributed to the 67 counties on an equal share basis, regardless of size.

Health Department Holds Chest Clinics

On Thursday and Friday of last week chest clinics were conducted at the Health Department offices at Montevallo and Columbiana.

At these clinics 60 people were given X-ray examinations. By use of the tuberculin skin test to eliminate those who do not need an X-ray, and by X-raying the positive reactors to this test, many cases of early tuberculosis have been discovered at a stage where cure is entirely possible.

Through the facilities of the State Health Department and with further financial assistance provided by the County Anti-Tuberculosis Association, a number of these cases have been hospitalized during the past two years.

This has made it possible to not only restore a number of these patients to good health, but also to remove them from intimate contact with members of their family, thereby preventing these from contracting tuberculosis.—E. F. Sloan, County Health Officer.

Auburn's Agricultural College, the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, is host this summer to around 2,000 boys and girls, from farms of the state, who will go there for their annual summer meetings and camps. More than 1,000 members of the Future Farmers of America Clubs will be meeting from July 21 to August 23, while nearly a thousand 4-H members will be in three camps to be held July 10 to July 29.
